Expected Behavior – Adapted from the AGU and GSA Events Codes of Conduct

1. Treat everyone with respect. Make room for a diversity of voices in group discussions without pressuring those who choose not to speak. Be mindful of your tone and the potential impact your position, experience, and/or privilege may have on others.
2. Respect your fellow participants by using good practices for intercultural collaborations.
3. Be mindful of your surroundings and of your fellow participants.
4. Respect copying and use of presented materials and ideas, including knowing when you may need to obtain permission regarding copying materials. Honor presenters' requests not to take pictures or recordings.
5. Respect the rules and policies of the meeting venue, hotels, online platform, or any other venue.
6. Be Accountable: When we as organizers or participants fail to meet these guidelines, work together to identify problems and adjust policy and practice together.

Oregon State Univ. land acknowledgement

Oregon State University in Corvallis is located within the traditional homelands of the Marys River or Ampinefu Band of Kalapuya. Following the Willamette Valley Treaty of 1855, Kalapuya people were forcibly removed to reservations in Western Oregon.

Today, living descendants of these people are part of the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde Community of Oregon and the Confederated Tribes of the Siletz Indians. Indigenous people are valued, contributing members of the Oregon State community and represent multiple sovereign tribes among students, faculty, staff and alumni.

Oregon State University accepts its responsibility for understanding the continuing impact of that history on these communities. Oregon State is committed — in the spirit of self-reflection, learning, reconciliation and partnership — to ensure that this institution of higher learning will be of enduring benefit, not only to the state of Oregon, but also to the people on whose ancestral lands it is now located.

Wilkinson Hall is located at the north side of the OSU campus.

It's a pleasant 20-minute walk from the Hilton Garden Inn straight north on 26th St. Cross Western Avenue by Reser football stadium and follow 26th St.

You'll pass athletic fields, Fairbanks Hall and Women's Building on your left. Wilkinson Hall is also on the left side.

It's past Bates Hall at the corner of 26th and Orchard Ave. It is a two-story beige and brick building.
